

Excipient World

a preview

*Excipient conference and expo expands
scope to global market*

Excipient World, formerly known as ExcipientFest, now an IPEC-Americas event, offers participants excipient education and provides a marketplace to source excipient solutions from local manufacturers and global suppliers. Since its inception nearly 20 years ago, the event has hosted more than 10,000 participants, and IPEC-Americas hopes to grow attendance by expanding the conference's focus beyond the North American market.

This year's conference theme is "the evolving global role of excipients." Manufacturing professionals in formulation, operations, R&D, procurement, and regulation can attend half-day pre-conference workshops on technical and regulatory issues led by industry leaders. The conference also offers two days of educational sessions covering topics such as formulation and technology advancements, quality and regulatory issues, the supply chain, and emerging growth sectors.
