Nutraceutical conference to focus on industry sustainability

Vitafoods Europe, a nutraceutical conference and exposition, will take place May 7-9 in Palexpo, Geneva, Switzerland, and will showcase the latest developments in nutraceutical ingredients, products, manufacturing, and equipment. Organizers expect more than 1,200 exhibitors and more than 22,000 attendees from every nutraceutical sector including ingredient and raw material suppliers, services providers, contract manufacturers, and manufacturers of finished products, private-label products, and equipment. On the show floor, attendees will be able to join innovation tours, visit the ingredients zone and tasting center, or network with potential business partners using the expo's distributor matching service.

Because of the increasing popularity of plant-based ingredients and the consumer demand for responsible farming methods and innovative packaging, this year's show will focus on industry collaboration to build a sustainable nutraceutical industry. The education program will allow attendees to learn from and network with experts from the nutraceutical, supplement, and functional-food industries. It will feature 11 tailored summits on various topics including personalized nutrition, sustainability, contract manufacturing, and technological innovation.
