Cover photo shows the dosing unit of a Planeta 200 continuous-motion capsule filler, which doses up to 200,000 capsules per hour. Unit’s modular design can be configured to suit a wide array of production requirements and can accommodate several dosing units simultaneously for filling capsules with multiple different products. “No capsule, no dosage” operation reduces waste and minimizes the formulation’s exposure to the processing environment. Courtesy of MG America. For more information, call 973 808 8185 or visit www.mgamerica.com.

CAPSULE FILLING

A systematic approach to solving encapsulation problems caused by a sticky formulation 14
Jon Carlisle

Vegetarian substitutes for gelatin soft capsules 18
Claudia Silva and Kirti Vatsa

Issue focus: Capsule filling

Back page

GRANULATION & DRYING

Granulation and drying: A survey of what’s available 36
CDMO turns to rotary granulation process to solve complex reformulation challenge 38

ALSO IN THIS ISSUE

USP seeks volunteers for Excipients Expert Committees 12
Comprehensive equipment and utility change control for GMP production facilities 28

Interphex preview

Eye on Excipients

DEPARTMENTS

Letter from the editor 6
Research 8
Markets 8
Industry news 9
Calendar 46
Supplier news 48

People news 50
Mini case histories 51
Advertiser index 56
Spotlight on nutraceuticals 32A

(This section appears four times yearly in issues delivered to our nutraceutical readership.)

Tablets & Capsules (ISSN 1549-9928 print, ISSN 1938-9159 online) is published by CSC Publishing, Inc, 1155 Northland Drive, Saint Paul, MN 55120.